The Dream

By Sophie

One day in the year of 2011, Emily had a dream. She dreamed that her mom left her sister Jodi and her in the car with the keys in the car. Since her mom was gone she decided to try driving. It took her a while to find the gas, brake, and air bag. Then when she started going she hit a stop sign, ran a red light, and almost crashed into Circle Park on Main Street. She went downtown to buy an ice cream cone and forgot to put the car in park and the car rolled away. As the car rolled away it hit a tree.

Then, all the sudden Emily opened her eyes and was in bed. She told Jodi all about this weird dream. She was telling the story like this actually happened. After she was done telling Jodi, she asked her “Do you remember this Jodi?” Jodi replied “I have no idea what you’re talking about.” Then, Emily remembered that this crazy thing didn’t actually happen, it was a dream.

After all of that Emily told her friends and they all started laughing. Emily thought that was a great story and she told the teacher. But instead of laughing the teacher just stood there. On her walkie-talkie she told Mr. Keller the principal and Emily got to tell the whole school her story. Well, let’s call it a dream. BEEP BEEP BEEP BEEP! “Wake up its time to go to school!” yelled mom.
