CAVERELLA

By Beau

Once upon a time there was a kingdom called Cave Kingdom and there was a house in the kingdom. In the house was a widower and his daughter. The widower married a wife that had two daughters. Sadly, the dad died, and his step-mom and her daughters treated Caverella like a slave.

One night the king of Cave Kingdom hosted a dance and whoever looked the most beautiful could marry the king's son. So the two sisters including the stepmother went to the dance without Caverella.

Then a bright light came into the house and said, "Don't be sad, Caverella."

Then Caverella said, "Who are you?" looking confused.

The mysterious voice said, "I am your fairy godmother."

Caverella said, "OK."

Then the fairy godmother said, "Let me guess. You want to marry the king's son and look the most beautiful in the land."

Caverella said, "Yeah, how did you know?"

The fairy godmother said, "I just do and here's the deal. You give me a boulder, a triceratops' tooth, three baby allosaurus eggs, and four jungle logs.

Then Caverella said, "OK."

Two hours later she got back with everything the fairy godmother asked for. Then she cast a spell and turned the boulder into a carriage and the three baby dinosaur eggs into two guards and a driver, and the logs into carriage wheels, and the dinosaur tooth into a horse whip. For emergencies the fairy godmother had two triceratops that were trained and lead the front of the carriage. The fairy godmother cast one last spell on Caverella and it transformed her clothes into the prettiest dress in all of Cave Kingdom.

The fairy godmother said, "Remember this. You only have time until sunrise and the spell wears off and everything will be the same as it was before I cast the spell."

Caverella said, "Got it."

After a while Caverella got to the ball. Then Caverella made it inside and found the prince and started to dance with him.

The prince said, "Who are you?"

Caverella said, "Oh, I'm just a fine maid."

The prince said, "Oh, okay. You look so beautiful."

Caverella said, "Thank you."

The prince said, "You're welcome."

Then they danced till it was almost sunrise. Then Caverella said, "I have to go."

The Prince said, "Wait!"

But Caverella did not stop. She got to the carriage and got away from the kingdom to her house, but she was missing one of her diamond slippers. Then everything turned back into the way it was except the dinosaurs.

Back at the kingdom, the prince found Caverella's missing diamond slipper. He said, "Guards, find whoever this slipper belongs to and she will marry me."

The guards searched all around the land and got to Caverella's house. All three women jumped up and one at a time they each tried on the slipper.

Then Caverella said, "Can I try?" The guards slipped the slipper on and it fit.

Caverella and the prince got married. Caverella moved into the royal castle and they lived happily ever after.
