

Hondo and Mittens

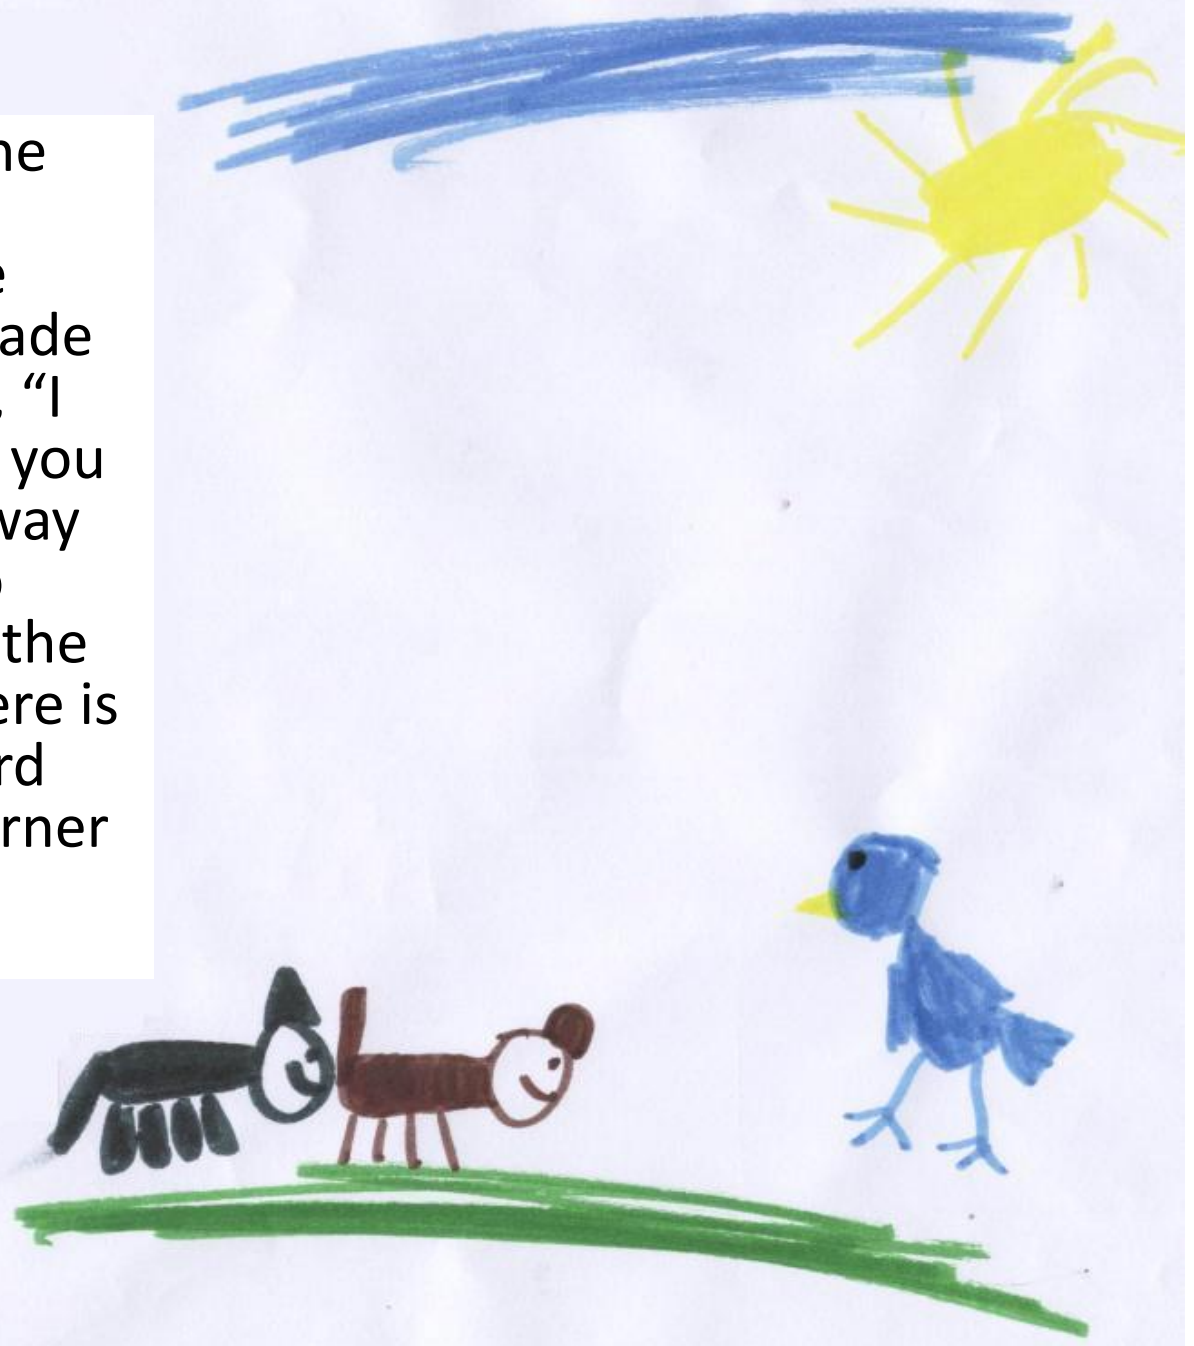

by Haylee

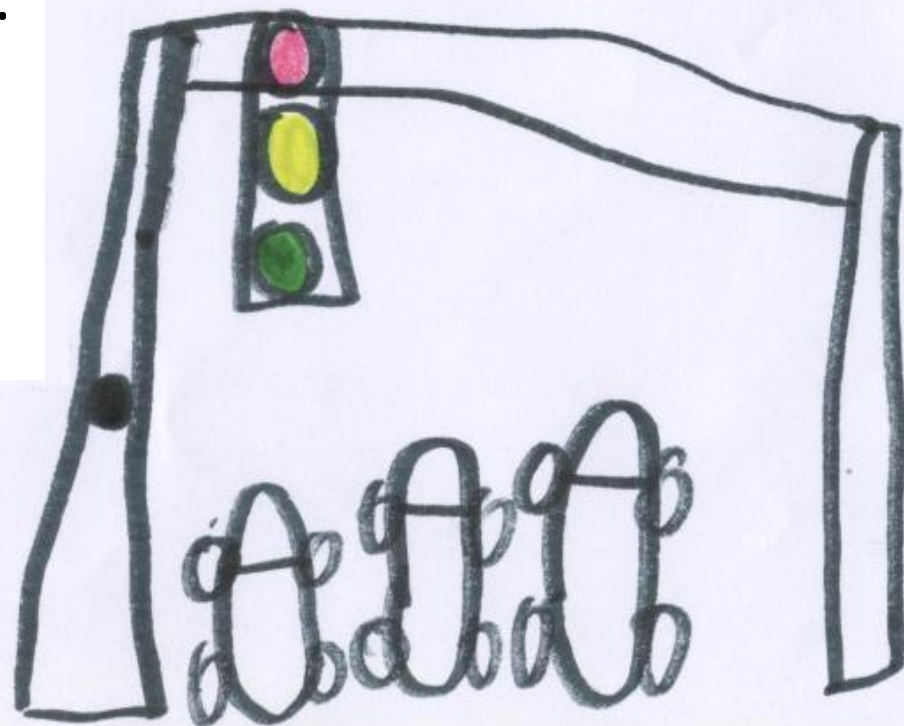

Once upon a time there was a puppy and a kitten. The dog was a German Sheppard and he was brown. His name was Hondo. The cat is black and white and loved to play with yarn. Her name is Mittens. They wanted to go to a parade.

First they went to the park and met a bird. They asked him if he knew where the parade is. But, the bird said, "I do, but I will not tell you where it is, so get away from me." So Hondo grabbed the bird by the wing and said, "Where is the parade?" The bird said, "around the corner and take a left."

They went around the corner and took a left. They ran to the parade. But there were cars everywhere. Hondo tried to reach the walk button on the stop light. But he couldn't reach it. So Mittens jumped on Hondo's back and hit the button with her paw.

They were watching the parade when a bunch of kids started chasing them. They hid behind a trash can. When the kids left they could watch the parade again.

- They had hot coco and cookies at the parade and then went home.
