

Scoty the Super Duck-billed Platypus

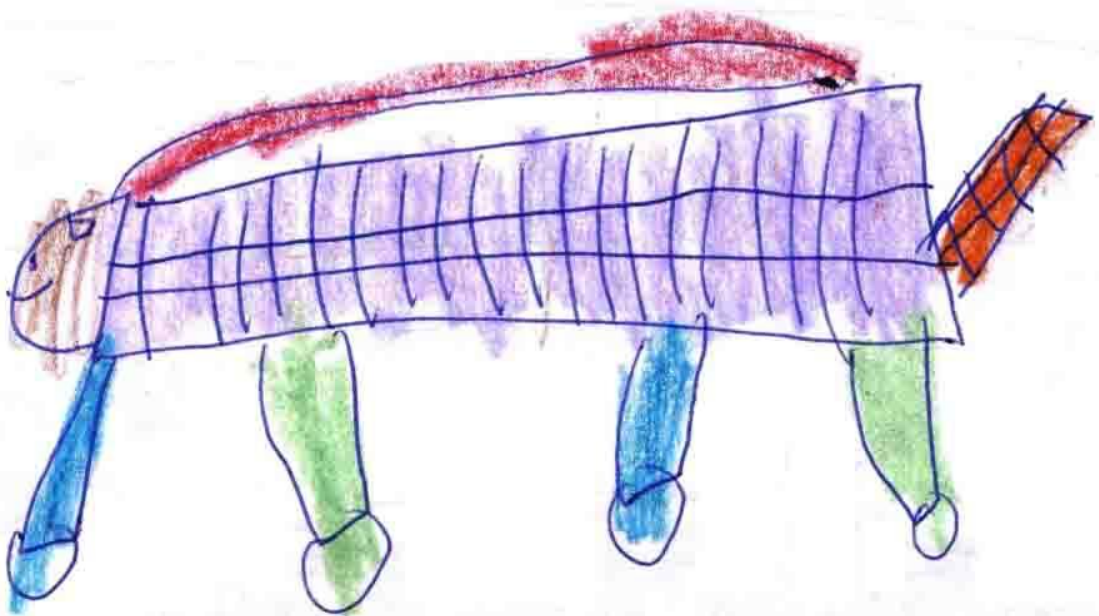

By Haley

Dedicated to platypuses!

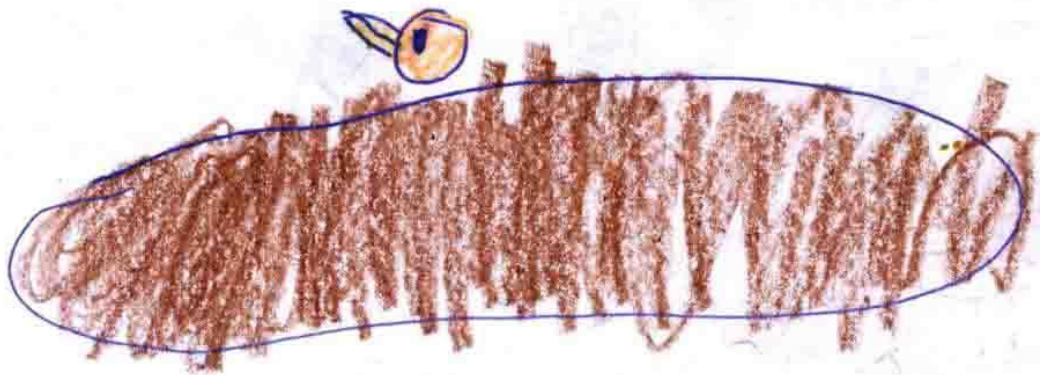

and my family

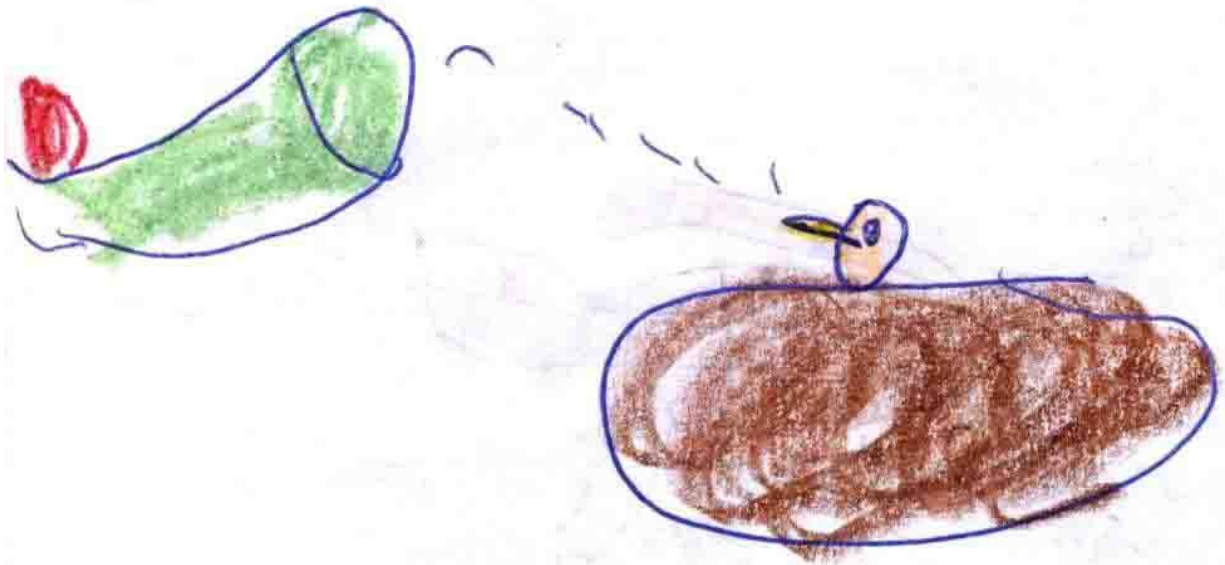

Once upon a time there was a platypus and his name was Scoty. He had super powers!

His first mission was to help a bird fly. He set up to go to save his bird. The bird was a baby.

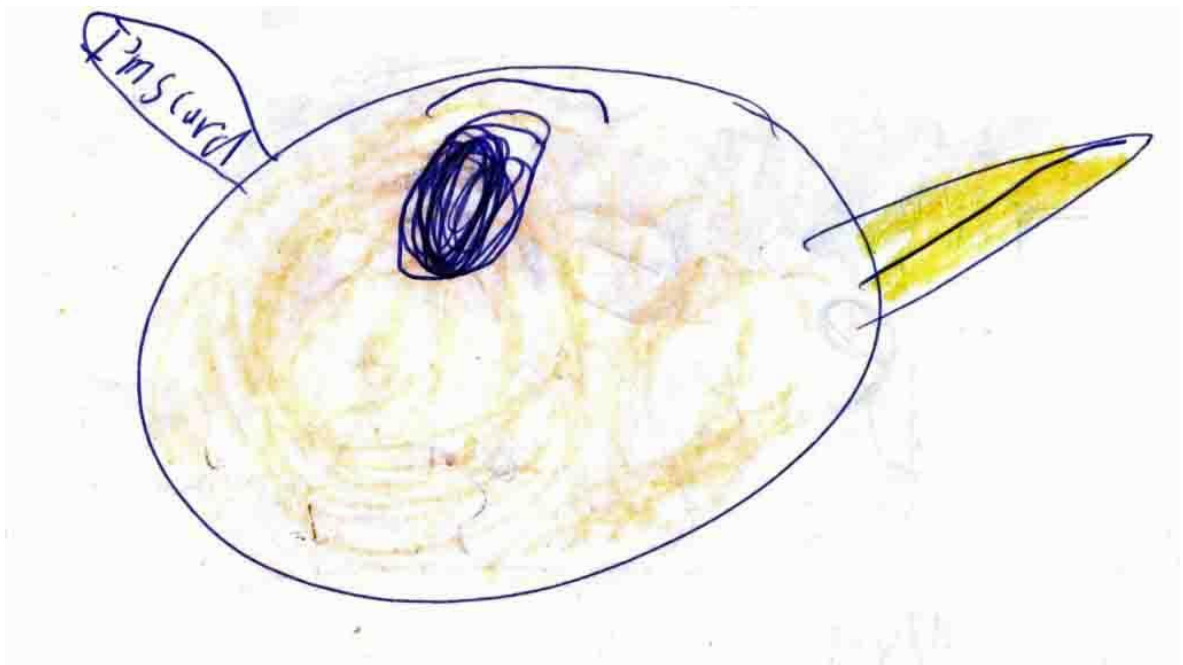

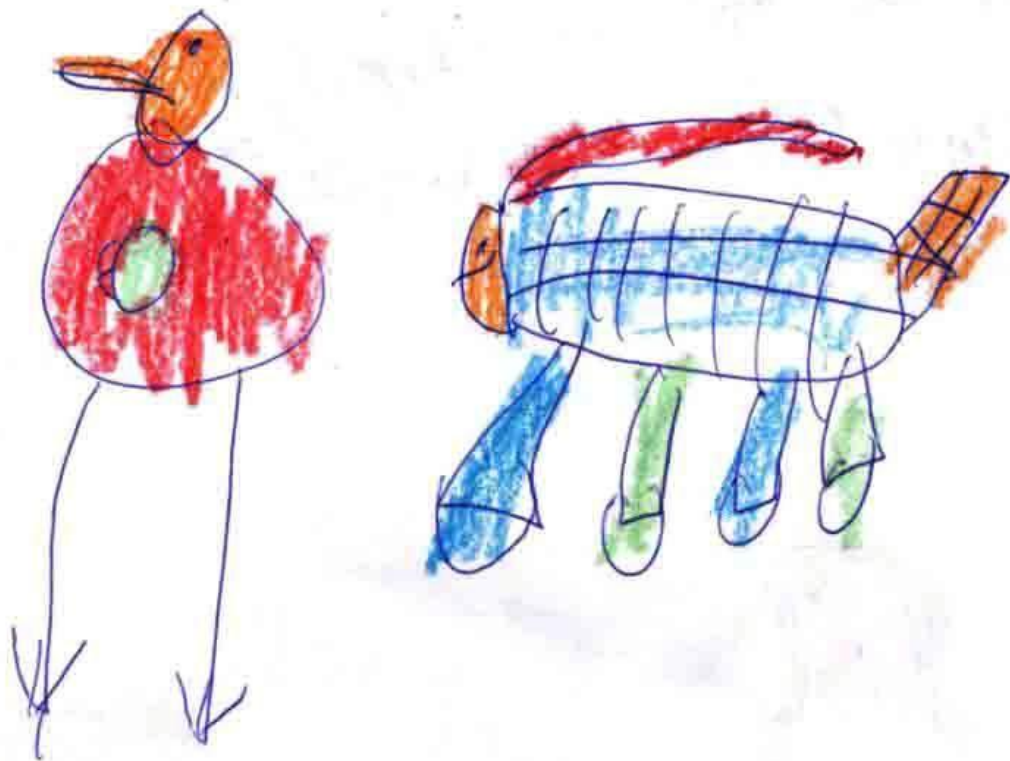

The baby bird was about to learn to fly. Scoty tried to touch the bird. But the baby bird almost fell out of his nest. The baby bird finally had comfort with Scoty.

The baby bird was excited to fly. But he was scared of high places. He finally got up and started to fly. But he was scared and did not know how to go down.

Scoty told the bird he did not need to go down and that he was safe up high. But the bird was still scared.

Scotty decided to tell the bird nice things. The bird finally decided he was confident. He could fly!!

Chapter 2

The Kitten's Problem

Once upon a time there was a kitten and her name was Tipted. Tipted lived on a beach. She loved to go on ship rides. One day she went on a big sail boat. It was time to have Scoty to work again.

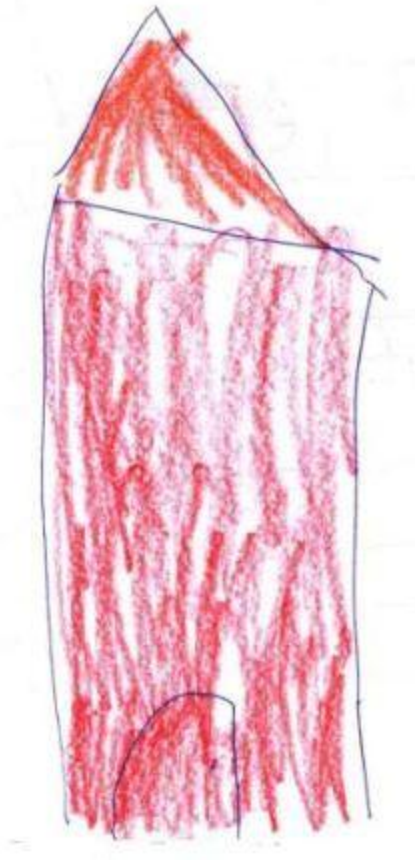

Scoty took off for the sail boat.
He knew the kitten was scared.
He went toward the sail boat. But when he went to the sail boat, a storm started. It was harder to fly.

Finally he arrived there and flew the kitten to safety. The kitten was safe. But then the storm got harder.

So they had to go under cover.
They searched and searched.
Finally they found cover. One day
later the storm stopped.

Then they lived happily ever after and dry. The end

About the Author

The author Haley loves to write and draw. She loves horses and her family.

