

The Rescue A Story

by Israel

Once upon a time there was a princess named Jessica. She was so pretty. Her eyes were blue and hair was black. One day she was in her room and when she went to go open the door it was locked.

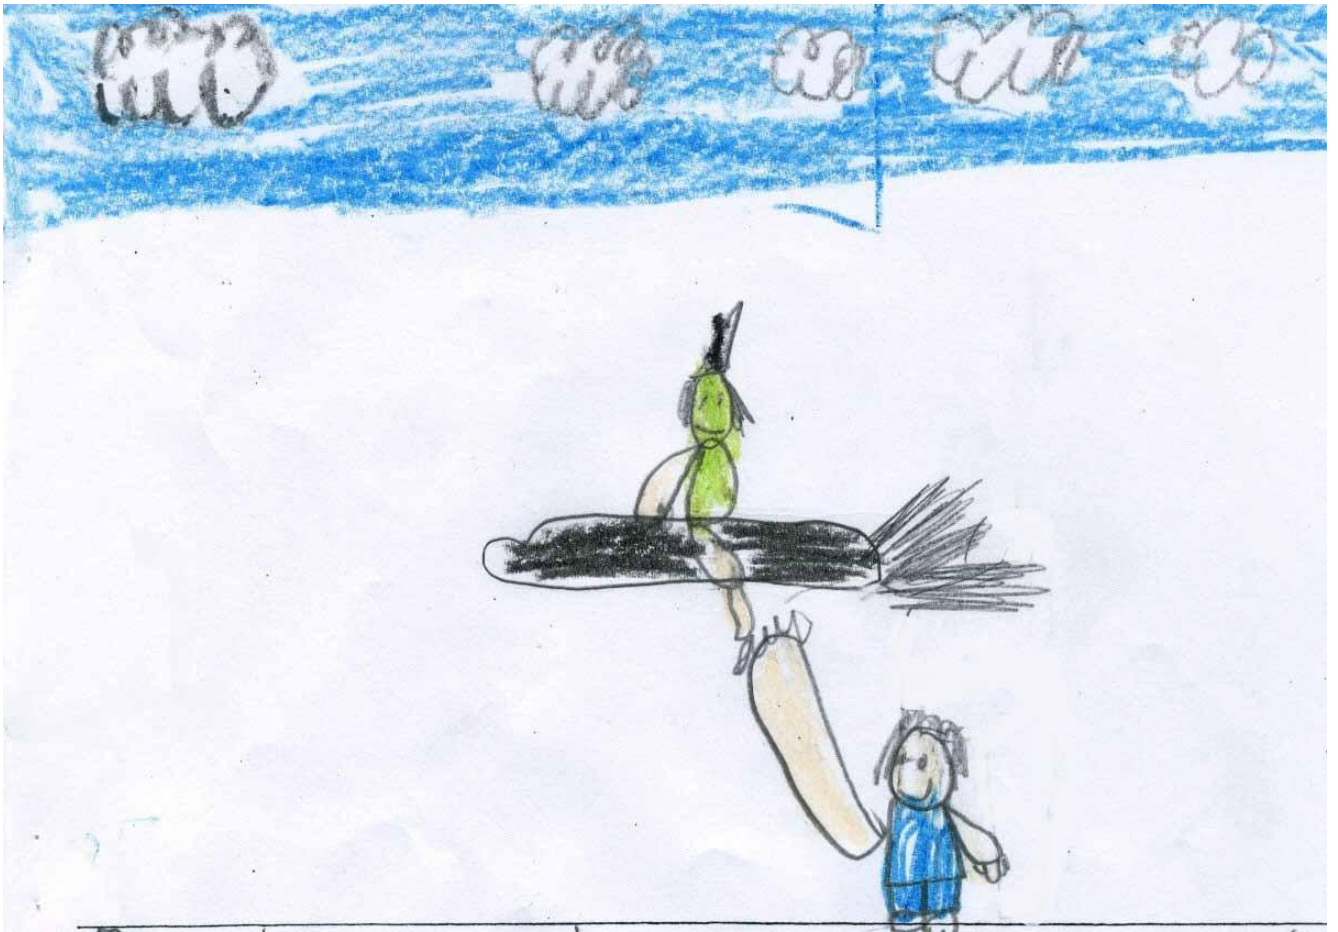

Jessica yelled for help. No one was there. That afternoon a prince was riding his horse in the woods and he heard, "Help, help, help!" He kept going closer until he was there.

He walked into the castle and boy was it clean. He went upstairs. That afternoon a witch was nearby and she heard talking. She landed her broom and walked into the castle. She went up the stairs and...

.....she got mad because somebody was trying to get the princess out. So she clapped three times and her broom came. She flew to the boy, took him to a far away place, and dropped the boy off.

But he pulled her off with him. He jumped on the broom and flew away. It was kind of unsteady at first. But then he got better and flew back to the castle.

He went to the door and unlocked it. He asked her to marry him and she said yes. They never knew why the witch locked her in the castle. But, Jessica knew she did not regret it.

Jessica and the prince lived happily ever after.