

The Story of a Rule Breaker

I'm supposed to follow all these rules... yeah
Right

by Emily

One day at Appleton School, Mrs. Brigg's class was going to music at 1:00 sharp. When everyone was in the room, Mrs. Helappy, the music teacher, told them what they were doing that day. When it was time to do a warm up, Mark immediately started singing the wrong notes. Mrs. Helappy was not happy. But, she decided to give him one more chance. When it was time to play musical statues, Mark started being rude like singing, "stupid smelly weird fat ugly music teacher." Mrs. Helappy wrote Mark's name on the board under the word DISCIPLINE.

In spelling, Mark was not writing down his spelling words. He was drawing on his spelling paper. Mrs. Briggs told Mark to get out a new piece of paper and write down his spelling words. Mark didn't, he wrote down 'your super annoying'. Mrs. Briggs looked at his paper and wrote a big red F on his paper.

At recess, Mark played with everyone and kicked every ball over the fence. He went up to Jim the guard teacher and asked for another ball. Jim said.....

..... "Sorry, no more balls, but there is another thing to kick." Everyone agreed with him.

"What, what, is it?" Mark cried. Jim grabbed Mark and kicked him over the fence.

The End
