Chapter 1 - Gijfet

Gijfet was flying through a wormhole in his spaceship, the Light Year. He had been warned by the advisory droid on his ship that going through wormholes is sometimes fatal, but he had a good reason to put his ship at risk. His home planet Gonar, was being attacked by the evil race of aliens, the mawakies. They lived on a desert planet on the edge of the universe. The star in their galaxy had recently imploded, creating the wormhole that Gijfet was traveling through.

He was over there to check out the wreckage of the mawakie's planet. It's surface was all glass, because of the star's heat. But inside the glass, Gijfet could see the planet was in pieces. Surprisingly, the planet was still inhabitable, the coward mawakies had fled. The only things that remained on the planet (or rather in the planet) were some giant sand worms. Nothing could get in or out.

In search of a new planet, they had found the beautiful ocean planet of Gonar. Luckily the S.Q.U.I.D. droids had been keeping them from attacking the main land. Some Neblecs from the ocean floor had decided to join the fight. The mawakies themselves were strange bugs with one big eye that was mostly filled with brain. They had lots of arms on either side that were connected to form wings. When Gijfet got to his home planet, he saw the war going on from 20 miles in the air. The sea was no longer all green. Now it was splotched with blood!

Chapter 2

The grand admiral buzzed through the air. His cape looked like a wave washing over his massive eye (which was very bloodshot). After the construction of the E.Y.E. (the Engaged Yonder Equipment) he was exhausted. He had the captain of the S.Q.U.I.D.S. held captive, and had a plan to make all of the S.Q.U.I.D.S. into his army. He could see the battle going on below.

Just then, the prince of the mawakies walked in. He was a humanoid that had been abducted. Then the king adopted him. Originally, his name was Que, but he was forced to change it. On the mawakies planet, only relatives were allowed to hear each other's name.

The Prince said, "We must stop this war. Now with the E.Y.E. we can control a bigger planet, like Quadwel!"

The admiral replied in his language "But my army is here!"

Without saying anything the Prince left. The grand admiral flew over to the main computer and scanned his pupil. Once the computer had turned on, it glowed with the golden sandworm logo of E.Y.E., and all the options he could use. He linked a camera to the small tank of water, where the captain of the S.Q.U.I.D.S. was kept. He then linked a microphone. He ordered the S.Q.U.I.D. to broadcast a signal to all the other S.Q.U.I.D.S. that the grand admiral was now their leader, or else he would be shot into space. The S.Q.U.I.D.S. antenna glowed, broadcasting the message. After it stopped, the grand admiral laughed and activated a trapdoor and the S.Q.U.I.D. was launched into space.

Chapter 3 - Gijfet

Gijfet touched down on a landing pad inside the secret city. He had to let his ship sink into the water onto a conveyor belt, then it would take him under the island to the city. As he passed through the airlock, a man came running towards him. Gijfet realized it was his old friend Jordan. They had known each other for years.

Jordan had a device in his hand. It had a blinking light on it. Jordan said, "We have received a message from the captain of the S.Q.U.I.D.S. The grand admiral is in charge now. The entire planet of S.Q.U.I.D is after Gonar."

Gijfet stepped back, he had forgot that his friend had a bionic face implant so he could survive in the thin atmosphere of Gonar. With it, he had an extra memory implant so he could remember more. On his home planet, Quadwell, people preferred to clone so that everyone would be the same. Gijfet realized that one of the S.Q.U.I.D. droids had followed them in. Gijfet aimed his gun at it and shot. The S.Q.U.I.D. ducked but the shot changed its path and struck it. As soon as it touched, the S.Q.U.I.D. was frozen in a block of a clear solid.

Jordan said, "We must retreat to our base on the 3rd moon of Quadwell. But first, our weapons specialist has something for us."

Chapter 4

The rover drove along in its self-generated force field. It's artificial intelligence knew that it was close enough to drop the anti-mass bomb into the control room of Gonar. The S.Q.U.I.D. it was riding in had been frozen. When that happened it triggered an eject mechanism for the rover. It sensed that Gijfet was coming. Even with a force field, no rover could sustain two blasts from a freeze gun. It activated the cloaking device and drove to the side.

Gijfet walked by into weapons tech. As he walked by the rover shot a wire onto his leg and pulled up to it. In an instant Gijfet whirled around and aimed his gun. "Thinking" fast, the rover flicked up its white flag. Then it crawled up onto his hand and smashed its own camera. The grand admiral cursed. He had been watching all along through a video system. He flew over to the fountain, and it responded with a robot arm that popped out and moistened his eye. He went back to the computer and set up a chain. He would say to everyone on the E.Y.E. that he was activating the self-destruct sequences. Then the computer would start the self-destruct sequence. Then it would eject everyone as it moved over to Gonar. Then everyone would log out of the E.Y.E.'s computer system.

Chapter 5- Gijfet

Gijfet walked into weapons tech with the rover on his shoulder. The weapon specialist said as they walked in, "Two things. One: The E.Y.E. is coming and Two: We have some tech sticks." With that he handed them two meal bars.

Gijfet asked, "What do they do?"

The specialist replied "Everything."

Gijfet, Jordan, and the rover walked out. They ran to the hanger where the Light Year was. They scrambled up the ladder and into the Light Year. Inside, the advisory droid was attacked by the rover. The rover had removed the droid's main computer, and attached its own hard drive to the rest. The rover now had the ability to walk, and had the knowledge of the advisory droid. It had taken a Electro-pen and drawn (XD-24) down his leg. Gijfet, Jordan and the XD-24, took off. Jordan went to the computer, but there was no life forms on the E.Y.E. As they approached Quadwell, Gijfet felt a violent shaking. When he looked back, instead of seeing Gonar and the E.Y.E., all he saw was an asteroid field. He checked the computer for Gonar, but it was gone.

"NOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOOO!!!!!!!!!!" Gijfet screamed.

Chapter 6

The mawakies prince paced the floor of his escape pod. He did not want to take over any planets or start any wars, but he knew that if he said that his step-father would eject him into outer space. For a while, he had been miserable because the grand admiral of the mawakies had destroyed his home planet of Gonar where he suspected that his brother was blown to bits. But he was soon after informed that his brother's ship had been spotted approaching Quadwell. That was why he was going there. He hadn't seen his brother for years. He looked out through the (virtually indestructible) glass walls of his pod and remembered his old name-Que. He hadn't gone by that since he had been abducted.

Suddenly, a voice came from the computer, "Hello. This is the Quadwell landing droid 52624A. What is your purpose in a E.Y.E. escape pod?"

Stunned a bit, Que replied, "I was ejected from the E.Y.E. after being held captive (which was about 3/4s true)."

"You are clear to land on landing pad 572B," said the landing droid.

Chapter 7 - Gijfet

"I wish Que was here," said Gijfet.

Jordan asked, "Who is Que?"

Gijfet replied, "My older brother."

Jordan said, "There is a E.Y.E. craft going for the landing pad next to ours. We are 572A, and they are 572B."

Gijfet said, "Well who is in it?"

The droid sent a message to the ship and replied that it was a man named Que. As soon as Gijfet heard that he ran to the controls, pushed the droid aside, and pushed the throttle as far forward as it would go. As soon as the Light Year landed, Gijfet shot out of the ship and waited next to landing pad 572B.

As he walked out, Jordan said, "Well, Gijfet, I have never seen you act so childish."

The pod landed. The man inside it grabbed a comuter and slammed it into the wall breaking it. He ran forward yelling, "Gijfet!"

Gijfet yelled, "Que!"

They hugged each other then Que said, "I know where the mawakies secret base is. It is on the S.Q.U.I.D. planet."

Then everyone rushed back inside the Light Year. Gijfet manned the controls and flew through the miles of nothingness toward there. About halfway there, a droid floated toward them. It was the captain of the S.Q.U.I.D.

Chapter 8

The grand admiral landed on the planet of the S.Q.U.I.D.S. He flew out of his capsule. He headed into the entrance. Inside, he headed into the forest training dome. There, what looked like a toucan flew up to him. Its beak opened and a camera popped out. It scanned the grand admiral. Then, a hole in the ground opened. He went down it, but he forgot to close it. He went to a computer and told all the S.Q.U.I.D.S. to go inside the Lava training course. Then he ordered one of the robot-guards to shut the door and lock it. Then, he made the Lava level increase burning all of the S.Q.U.I.D.S. into scrap metal. He let the door open so that the lava would pour out the lava lock and melt the droid guards.

The last droid's antenna glowed, broadcasting a message to anyone who could find it, saying, "To anyone. Find the captain of the S.Q.U.I.D.S. and side with him. He will help you…(shhhhhhhh)….destroy the grand admiral…(shhhh)..the mawakies…(shhhhhhhhh)…have taken over….(shhhhh)….planet of….(shhhhhhhh)…..the S.Q.U.I.D.S.!"

Chapter 9 - Gijfet

Jordan was about to shoot the captain of the S.Q.U.I.D.S., when he intercepted a message. He was about to shoot anyway, until he heard the last sentence. He shot a grappling hook and it latched onto the captain. They pulled him in. The rover/advisory (who we will call Rob) wasn't too happy about having another droid aboard the same ship. Rob kept complaining about "sharing the power plug", but Gijfet said he had an old solar panel he could hook up to Rob. When he said it was old he meant it. It was a foot tall! They landed on the planet of the S.Q.U.I.D.S. They headed towards the Lava course, but a warning sign said the lava overflowed, and that they couldn't go in. S o, they checked the forest dome. There, they found a hole in it. They jumped, but they left Rob to defend the hole. Under the dome floor, they found a large grey door. Outside, Rob made a loud wheee-eo! as if to tell them something. They went back out, but Rob was gone. They decided to go back to the door. Inside the door, the grand admiral was staring at them!

Chapter 10

The grand admiral said, "So Gijfet has survived," in his language.

Gijfet whipped out his Tech stick. He pressed a button on the end and it shot a long bolt of electricity. It stopped about three inches from the grand admiral then turned around and shot back to Jordan. He went flying backward and then hit the wall, and slumped down unconsciously.

From behind the grand admiral came Rob. He pointed his arm at Gijfet and said, "Sorry Gijfet but once a mawakie, always a mawakie. One move and I shoot."

Gijfet shot a lightning bolt at the grand admiral. It struck the pupil of him. The grand admiral fell to the ground and disintegrated in a pile of black dust.

"Like I said Gijfet, sorry," said Rob as he shot through his arm. It struck Gijfet's leg and instantly it was gone. Gijfet fell over in pain. Rob strode out of the room. But he hadn't gone three steps when a toucan like bird flew up and then flew straight through Rob's chest. Instantly, he exploded. Jordan, who had come to, dragged the unlucky Gijfet outside.

Back at the ship, Jordan started the engine. He had taken one of Rob's old legs and then attached it to where Gijfet's leg used to be. A long wire wound up to Gijfet's head then connected directly to his brain. Jordan flew into the space between S.Q.U.I.D. planet and Quadwell. As soon as he landed, he woke Gijfet. Que strolled out (he had slept through everything). Unsteady on his new leg, Gijfet limped out of the Light Year using his tech stick like a cane. Jordan helped Gijfet toward a new house. Inside, Jordan treated Gijfet to a bowl of hot soup. Jordan gave him new clothes. That evening Gijfet slept like he had never slept before.
