

How Elephants Got Their Trunks

by Amber

How Elephants Got Their Trunks

By Amber Clark

Long long...ago in Africa there lived an elephant, she was a very curious elephant. One day she went out and she walked and walked. Then, she fell into some thorns and a gorilla pulled her out. But when she was getting pulled out, her nose got stuck on a thorn and it got a little bit longer. She still got out. She thanked the gorilla and kept walking.

Then she bumped into her friend frog. They had lunch together. After lunch elephant kept walking. She stopped at a waterfall and got cleaned up. While she washing her ears, a big rock falls on her nose. Then cheetah comes to see the little elephant was stuck under a rock. Cheetah helped push the rock off her nose. Elephant thanked him and walked off.

All of a sudden, she saw a tiger. She went up to him and said, "hi". Then the tiger grabbed his little trunk of a nose and started pulling. The tiger was very hungry and he was trying to eat elephant. But, elephant got away, but with a big long trunk. That is how the elephants got their long trunks.