

Blitz and Rainboom's Journey

Written and illustrated by Kaia T.

Blitz and Rainboom's Journey

Written and illustrated by Kaia T.

Chapter 1: The Princesses are Missing:

It was early in the morning at Cloudsvale. All the clouds were damp and soft. The sky glowed light purple. But the story actually starts in a house on East Raincloud Street. There lived a Pegasus named Blitz. He was light blue with a rainbow tail and mane. His neighbor

Rainboom looked similar to him, except with a long mane and smaller wings.

One day Blitz got a note from the princesses the note stated:

Dear Blitz,

We have important and great news to share with you. Please come to our castle as soon as you get this letter. P.S

Another pony will come if they decide to,

Blitz was very surprised. Why they would want to see him? But then again he could've failed the flying test and Blitz didn't want to know where he would go if he failed the flying test. As he flew to the princesses' castle, he was in Ponyville. He saw Applecreasent. Applecreasent was jumping rope with a few other fillies and colts. He kept on flying until he got to the door of the castle. He saw Rainboom waiting at the large wooden door.

Blitz flew down and asked, "Rainboom, Why are you here?"

Rainboom stated, "The princesses wanted me to come here and talk to them,"

Blitz explained that he also got the same letter. Then the door mysteriously opened. They walked further until they came to Lunar's and Sunbright's Throne.

There was a note placed on them which read:

You foolish mare and colt. Why would you think that the princesses would want you? Well you can see your princesses again to see what they wanted to tell you. But for a price, and that of course would be for me. I want two hundred large green crystals by the week's end. Otherwise you will never see your pretty princesses again.

Chrissie The daughter of Queen Chrysalis!

Blitz said, "We have to save them, or else we will never have equality in Ponyville."

Rainboom added, "Or see a different time of day or night again!"

They rushed to the evergreen forest. When they were running and flying they lost their energy. They started to walk slowly. Rainboom's ear went up when she heard a noise from behind her in the bushes and trees. She looked behind her and saw a green eye, then she saw a pink eye.

She screamed and yelled to Blitz, "T-there's something in that bush!"

Blitz saw it, grabbed a stick, and sharpened it. He went over to the bush with his sharpened stick and poked the inside the bush. A loud yelp came out. A zebra with a spike collar and pierced ears jumped out. She had wings and a stitch cutie mark.

Rainboom sighed with relief, "It's just you Scratch."

Blitz replied, "Who exactly is Scratch?"

Scratch replied, "I'm the daughter of Zecora the zebra."

Chapter 2 Coral Canyons:

Blitz finally agreed to let Scratch on their journey with them. After explaining who captured the princesses and what they should do, they came to a small little sign. It said:

Coral Canyons. Cliffs and Drop-off's may be ahead beware.

They're wings were still tired and if they flew up there. It might awake the spiders and other creepy crawlers that lives there. They were climbing the long dark brown and red canyon wall. Finally they got to the top. A patch of sparkling crystals shimmered in the sun. It was hard to look at from them being practically baked in the hot sun.

Scratch said, "Don't touch the red ones."

Blitz said in a snooty voice, "Why?"

Then he touched a red crystal and it burnt him. It was even hotter because of the sun. Rainboom and Scratch started laughing hysterically. A burst of smoke filled the air and an evil laughed crackled. When the smoke cleared, Rainboom and Scratch were gone. He had an idea who stole them. It had to be Scratch's evil sister Scar, a servant of Chrissie.

To be continued.....