

The Journey of the PONYIES

By: Sophie!! illustrated by:
Sophie!!

The Journey of the Ponies

By Sophie T.

Chapter 2

Smiles and Sunflower had been walking hoof by hoof for days. They were very tired and wanted to almost turn around and go home.

“I know we’re close, we just have to be.” Said smiles in a positive voice.

Sunflower had a sudden stammer in her voice

“Whoa w-w-what is t-t-that??”

“I’m sure it’s just a bug your fine.” Spoke Smiles in a calm voice.

“Whoa is right! I am suddenly seeing what you are.”

“See I know what I’m doing!” said Sunflower.

But they hadn’t realized that it was a river and that they had to cross a bridge to get to the other end of the river without getting hurt badly.

“At least there is a bridge that we can cross.” Said Smiles to make Sunflower feel more relieved about actually crossing a river.

“Well you do have a point, I mean how dangerous can this bridge really be?” Sunflower said more bravely than she ever had before.

But they tried it out not knowing how dangerous the bridge really was. Smiles went first knowing Sunflower would want the bravest one to go first in case anything happened.

“Smiles, um I’m a little scared about this bridge. I mean you know it’s kind of creaky.” Whispered Sunflower in a scared kind of voice.

Smiles said some words that her and Sunflower might want to remember for their return to happy pony island “You have to be confident even if you don’t want to be. I have to admit myself, I am a little scared of how we’re going to get back. Who knows how long this bridge is going to stay a bridge.”

“Ha you just admitted that you were scared!” Sunflower said proudly.

“Well you do it all the time so you can’t say that.”

“AHHHHHHH!!!!!!!!!!!!!!”

“You know Sunflower, I am very glad that we came togeth- whoa, Sunflower where did you go?”

She looked behind her and saw a dangling tan/brown wood square and suddenly heard the rushing water and realized that that was where Sunflower was.

“SUNFLOWER!! I’m coming very soon!” yelled Smiles as loud as she possibly could so that Sunflower could hear her.

Smiles spread out her wings and started to soar down over the bridge and went down towards the river.

Smiles flew down into the water to save Sunflower.

“Smiles, I’m so glad to see you! Why didn’t you come and save me earlier?” asked Sunflower

“Well because I didn’t hear you or see you and I know that you can’t fly and so sorry that I couldn’t come and get you.” Answered Smiles.

“Well you see, the thing is just that when I fell down I injured my leg on the wood square and it happened before I could spread grab a branch or a rock on the side.” Spoke Sunflower in pain.

They were so busy talking while they were trying to stay afloat, that they hadn’t realized the approaching waterfall that was going to get both of them injured.

They looked at the end of the river. It wasn't that far away from them so they had to get an idea in their heads fast!

"Grab that floating log!" shouted Sunflower to Smiles.

"Whoa, whoa.... Got you log!"

They started to use the log to go against the current but it was going around 50 miles per hour so there was no possible way that they could do it.

They started to get closer to the waterfall and they were going more towards the waterfall than the bridge.

There was just one bad thing about having wings, it was that if you were in the water or your wings were wet, than there was no way that any or Alicorn would be able to fly.

"I would make a wall to keep us from falling from that waterfall but it's hard to do when you don't know much magic." Smiles said in a sort of devastated voice.

Smiles had been an Alicorn for quite some time because she was one of the princess's daughters (Celestia's daughter.) But she still didn't know much magic and spells so it was difficult to be able to make that wall.

“Whew! It’s a little hard swimming against the current when the water’s going faster than you are.” Exclaimed Smiles.

“Well at least it’s not that far of a drop.” Spoke Smiles in a cheerful tone.

“Oh really?”

“Woah your right Sunflower, it is a lot bigger a drop from this waterfall than I thought it would be.”

They found that it was at least a 100 foot drop.

“Sunflower, I wanted to tell you that you have been the best friend that I have ever had and no matter what happens, I want you to remember me for as long as you can.” Said Smiles with a little snuffle.

“Well, you were the best friend that I could ever have as well.” Said Sunflower starting to tear up as well.

“AHHHHHHHHH!!!!!!!!!!!!!!” Said both of the girls wishing they were back at home with all of their friends.

The rushing of the water blocked out all of the noise that they were making.

Trees were poking out from behind the waterfall scratching their wings, their face, and the rest of their body.

After the hundred-foot drop, they landed in a little pond with mud all around it.

“EWWWW!” said Sunflower with the look of disgust on her face.

“It’s fine, all it is some mud.” Exclaimed Smiles a little disgusted as well.

“How is this going to work out? You know that I really hate mud.”

“Mud won’t kill you your fine now try to get the mud off of the side so that we can get out of here without getting stuck.” Said Smiles not so disgusted from the mud anymore.

“But my hoof’s will get dirty!”

Smiles had to at least admit that Sunflower could be a “clean pony” sometimes, even sometimes too much of a “clean pony.”

“Smiles gets a little out of hand sometimes.” Muttered Sunflower under her breath so that Smiles couldn’t hear her.

“Good job Sunflower. Thanks for helping me dig all the mud off of that ledge.” Said Smiles quietly so that Sunflower knew that she wanted to apologize for what she had done.

“Listen Smiles, I didn’t mean to get all worked up all over mud.” Said Sunflower wanting to apologize as well.

“It’s all right we all get worked up sometimes.”

“Agreed!”

“Hey look since it’s clean water let’s wash our hooves off.” Said Smiles trying to change the subject so that they didn’t have to apologize anymore.

“Good idea, you know it doesn’t really work very good when it’s all dried out and you have to scrape it all off.” Said Sunflower glad that Smiles had said something to change the subject.

“What is that thing falling from the waterfall?” thought Sunflower noticing the little bottle falling from the waterfall that Smiles and Sunflower had.

She didn’t think about it anymore until the bottle came down to the pond that her and Smiles were floating in.

“Well I was thinking that if maybe-

Smiles got cut off by a bottle touching around her hind leg.

To be continued.....