The Happy Clouds

By Kayla G.

There was a really happy town and everything was alive.

One morning, the sun came up and three bright white fluffy happy clouds woke up.

One of the clouds named Isabella saw a smiley face and butterfly far below them. He said to one of the other clouds, "It's a beautiful day isn't it?"

Bob the cloud replied, "Why yes it is."

The last cloud named Larry looked off into the far distant sky. "Come look, there are some strange black blobs over there."

Isabella said, "They really do look strange."

The three floated to the black blobs to get a better look. When they got closer, they saw three mean looking storm clouds.

“What are you doing in our territory?”
asked a mean cloud.

“We were just curious,” said Isabella.

“Now you know what we are, so go away!”
shouted a mean cloud.

One of the mean clouds shot a bolt of lightning at Isabella. Another mean cloud threw hail at Bob.

Isabella turned dark gray and started cry.
She floated away to her sad place by the tree.

Larry said, “Let’s go get everyone from the town to help!”

Larry and Bob floated to the town. They got Cop Pete Donut. They told all about the mean clouds. Cop Pete Donut didn’t believe it.

So Larry said, “I guess I’m just going to have to solve it ourselves.”

When they got back, Bob the cloud said “Let’s make something to make the mean clouds go away!”

So they got an airplane and wrote ‘Go away!’ on it. It didn’t work. All three mean clouds went under the airplane, lifted it up, and threw it. The airplane almost crashed. But Larry and Bob noticed that part of the mean clouds blew off from the plane’s propellers.

Then they built a teleporter. So when the clouds moved they would go away. The mean clouds rained on it and got the electronics wet. Then the teleporter quit working. But Bob and Larry noticed that the fan to keep it cool made one of the mean clouds smaller.

Larry smiled and said, “I have an idea. Let’s turn the wrecked teleporter into a giant wind maker. Bob you go tell the unicorns to be ready.”

At first it didn't work, so Larry added some different gears. Isabella and Bob came back to Larry. The mean clouds rumbled over to them to make fun of Isabella again. Just when the mean clouds got close enough, Larry turned on the giant fan. Then it did work and it blew the mean clouds away. It blew them to Unicorn Island.

Ashley and Cindy the unicorns were ready. They jumped out from behind a bush and used their horn to make a magical rainbow that destroyed the means clouds and fall back into the ocean.

Isabella told the unicorns, "Thank you Ashley and Cindy. Larry, that was a great idea to make the fan. We make a good team."

They invited everyone over and had giant party.
