

Winter Day

By Landen

Winter Day

By Landen

“Oh yay it’s snowing outside!” Turkey said.

“Get your boots, jacket, gloves and beanie on then you can go outside and play,” his mom replied.

“Really!” Turkey said.

“Yup,” she replied.

Turkey got on all of his winter clothes and called over snail. They went outside and built a snowman, it fell apart. They called over ant. He helped them build a snowman, it fell apart. They went inside for the night. They all got a good night sleep that night.

The next day they all came over to turkey’s house and made a plan together. If the snowman fell apart the first time then they would try different things. They tried again to build a snowman. Except this time they collected the perfect consistency of snow, not too or wet not too dry.

“It worked”! They all shouted.

They screamed and went inside to tell Mrs. Turkey.

All of the sudden they couldn't find her, they searched the whole house and they still couldn't find her. It was a crisis. They locked all the doors and hid. The next thing they know, the door unlocked and someone walked in.

The stranger said, "Turkey, ant, snail are you guys here?"

We came out of the closet and ran over to Mrs. Turkey and asked

"Where were you?"

"On a walk," she said. "I thought I told all of you."

"We never heard a single word from you," the group said.

Turkey said, "Guess what mom our snowman didn't fall down!"

Their cousin came over and he's a weirdo. Everyone always laugh's every time he tells a joke. They all ran outside and admired the beautifully built snowman Ant, Turkey and Snail all asked turkey's cousin if he wanted to build one with them.

“That will be so much fun!” He replied “Let’s do it”.

They built the snowman and then they had a snowball fight. It was the most fun they have had with their cousin in such a long time. Finally he had to go home to get some rest for the school day tomorrow. None of them wanted to go to school.

(Persistence)